APPENDIX.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE THIRTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY MEETING.

THE THIRTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY MEETING of the Members was held in the Theatre of the Institution on Saturday, the 5th March.

Lieutenant-General the Hon. SIR EDWARD CUST, K.C.H., in the Chair.

I. The Secretary read the Notice convening the Meeting.

II. The Minutes of the Proceedings of the Thirty-second Anniversary Meeting were read.

III. The Annual Report of the Council was read as follows :

1. It is with much satisfaction that the COUNCIL lay before the Members their thirty-third Annual Report.

MEMBERS.

2. During the year 1863, the number of new Members who have joined the Institution was 218. One hundred Members have died; thirty have withdrawn; thirty-eight have been struck off the list for non-payment of their subscriptions for two years and upwards, after more than one application had been made to them. The actual increase on the year, therefore, is fifty.

FINANCE.

3. The usual Abstract of the Accounts for the year, as audited on the 28th January, will be found on the following page.

RECEIPTS.

4. The sum of £100, received from the Authorities of the Queen's College, Cork, for the collection of electrotypes of antique coins and gems (which sale was sanctioned at the General Annual Meeting on the 14th March last), together with the balance of last year's Life Subscriptions, amounting to £9, and the Life Subscriptions of 1863, amounting to £305, have been invested in Government Securities; with the exception of a balance of £43, which will shortly be invested.

The Funded Property of the Institution, in 3 per Cent. Consols, amounted on the 1st January, 1864, to £3,583.

The number of Annual Subscribers who have raised their subscriptions during the year from ten shillings to one pound amounts to twenty-nine; nine Life Subscribers have paid the additional composition of three pounds, or an annual subscription of ten shillings. Ten pounds have been received as donations.

The sale of the Journal has produced £81, being £15 in excess of the sum thus produced in 1862.

The Income has exceeded the Estimate by £242.

EXPENDITURE.

5. The Expenditure has exceeded the estimated sums in the following items: in the Journal account, by £45; on account for Artificers, by £33; on account of Circulars, Stationery, &c., by £20.

On the other hand, the total expenditure has fallen within the estimate by £17.

The sum of £15 was expended in painting and repairing the roof of the Waterloo room; £41 in papering and painting the Library, Council Room, and Secretary's Office; and £12 in Illuminations on the occasion of the marriage of H.R.H. The Prince of Wales. These sums were not in the estimate of last year.

The balance of receipts over expenditure is £172.

LEASE OF THE PREMISES.

6. Referring to paragraph 2 of the Report of last year, the COUNCIL would briefly state that in March last they entered into communication with the First Commissioner of H.M.'s Woods and Forests, and made an application for a renewal of their lease for as long a period as might be possible, with the grant of some additional ground in the direction of the river; at the same time stating their readiness to improve the building, and to erect a suitable frontage. A short acknowledgment of this application was made on the 17th March, and a fuller and more definite answer on the 7th December. In this letter the First Commissioner, Mr. Gore, stated that, finding it was not likely that the Metropolitan Board of Works would come to a decision relative to the new street before the 5th April, 1864 (the period of the expiration of the lease of the front portion of the premises), he did not feel it in his power to grant a permanent lease; and he further stated that he was informed by the Crown Surveyor that the premises now occupied by the Institution would let for a much higher rent than £205 10*s.*, but that, as such a lease, pending the settlement of the question of the Thames Embankment Approaches, could not be granted, he was prepared, subject to the approval of the Lords of H.M.'s Treasury, to enter into an agreement to let the premises at the present rent, £205 10*s.*, upon condition that it be paid quarterly, and that the tenancy be terminable by either party on giving a quarter's notice. To this proposition the COUNCIL have acceded.

THE JOURNAL.

7. The Journal continues to uphold its character. The COUNCIL have received letters from absent members in high positions, expressing their opinion of its usefulness and importance.

The sale to the public has considerably increased during the past year.

On the other hand, from arrangements made with the present printers, the cost of publication has been considerably diminished.

LECTURES.

8. As the substance of the Journal is derived from the lectures and memoirs read in the theatre, the credit obtained by the Journal is of course mainly due to those writings, and the COUNCIL desire to express their obligations to the respective authors; and they hope that Members who have the power and opportunity will continue either to give or to obtain from others, papers that may be suitable for the Journal.

LIBRARY.

9. The additions made to the Library by the COUNCIL during the past year, have been somewhat more numerous and important than in preceding years; the principles adopted in the selection of the works have been the same as heretofore.

TOPOGRAPHICAL DEPARTMENT.

10. In addition to the charts presented by the Admiralty, the COUNCIL are indebted to the Governments of Denmark, Holland, and Belgium for the topographical maps (in continuation) of those countries; whilst from Viscount Mahon they have received a valuable map of the Guinea Coast in 1713, and from Vice-Admiral Sir Alexander Milne, K.C.B., one of the Island of St. Domingo.

MUSEUM.

11. In this department the following additions demand notice:—an important donation, made by the Rt. Hon. the Secretary of State for War, of Shot, Shell, FuzeS, with sections of the same: a remarkably fine bronze Gun, captured at Copal Droog, in India, by the force under the command of Major-General D. Macleod, and presented by him: and of the Accoutrements and Clothing of a non-commissioned officer of the Russian Imperial Family Battalion of Sharpshooters, given by General Tchertkoff, Russian Imperial Army.

The other additions to the Museum, Library, and Topographical Department will be found in the Appendix to Vol. VII of the JOURNAL.

VICE-PATRONS.

12. The following distinguished Members have been lost to the Institution, by death, since the last Meeting:—

The Right Honourable Sir George Cornwall Lewis, Bart.

Field-Marshals Lord Seaton, G.C.B., and Lord Clyde, G.C.B., K.S.I.

Admiral of the Fleet Sir William Hall Gage, G.C.B.

The Rt. Hon. Sir G. Cornwall Lewis, after filling the offices of Chancellor of the Exchequer and Secretary of State for the Home Department, accepted the post of Secretary of State for War in 1861 on the death of Lord Herbert, and presided over the War Department until his own death, which took place in 1863. In 1862, after having on a previous day made a careful inspection of the Institution, he occupied the chair at the Anniversary Meeting, and he concluded an interesting address by expressions which showed the value he attached to the Institution, and the good offices which, had he lived might have been expected from him.

Field-Marshal John Colborne, Lord Seaton; and Field-Marshal Colin Campbell, Lord Clyde. The former of these much distinguished soldiers entered the service in 1794, and the latter in 1808. An account of their eminent services would involve some allusion to almost every important event in which the British army has been engaged from the beginning of the century to the present time; while the space available in this report is evidently inadequate to do justice to such a subject.

Sir W. H. Gage entered the navy in 1789, and was present at the actions of the 14th March and 13th July, 1795. He served as Lieutenant under Commodore Nelson at the capture of the "Sabina," and in 1797 he assisted in cutting out the "Mutine" 14-gun brig from under the forts at Teneriffe. He served actively during the war in command of the "Terpsichore," "Uranie," "Thetis," and "Indus," was Commander-in-chief in the East Indies from 1826 to 1830, and on the Lisbon station from 1834 to 1837. From 1842 to 1846 he occupied a seat at the Admiralty.

CORRESPONDING MEMBERS OF COUNCIL.

13. The number of Corresponding Members of COUNCIL at the close of the year amounted to 182. The COUNCIL consider this statement highly gratifying, and take this opportunity of thanking them for the support they have given to the Institution, and for having forwarded its interests amongst their brother officers; at the same time they would urge them to renew their exertions in making the objects of the Institution better known among the Officers of H.M.'s Naval and Military Forces.

CONCLUSION.

14. The COUNCIL conclude their Report by expressing a hope that at no distant day they may see the Institution permanently established in its present premises, improved in appearance and accommodation, and, if possible, unhampered by debt or increased rent.

Vice-Admiral HERRINGHAM—

I feel persuaded that this Report has given great satisfaction to every gentleman present, and I have therefore to move the following Resolution:—

"That the Report now read be adopted, printed, and circulated among the Members."

Captain HORTON, R.N.—

I beg to second the Resolution. In doing so, I would take the opportunity of remarking upon the gratification we must all feel, at that passage in the Report which refers to the appreciation of the usefulness of the Journal; and of expressing the hope that the expectations of its increasing utility may be realized, in disseminating information of the most valuable kind among the Officers of the Army and Navy.

The Resolution was put from the Chair and carried unanimously.

IV. The names of eight Members retiring from the Council by rotation were read as follows:—

Rear-Admiral R. COLLINSON, C.B.
 Captain Sir SIBBALD SCOTT, Bart.
 Captain R. JEFFERSON, late Ceylon Rifles.
 Captain W. HOUSTON, R.N.

Sir HARRY VERNEY, Bart., M.P.—

I do not know what duties may really be performed by Members of the Council. I know there are some institutions in which the work is left entirely to the Secretary, and others in which the Council takes a very material part in the management of the institution. However, I am quite certain that those gentlemen who do attend to our business here during the course of the year, are eminently entitled to our thanks. Therefore, I have great pleasure in moving,—

“That the thanks of this Meeting be given to the Members of the Council who retire by rotation, and that the following gentlemen be selected to fill the vacancies:—

Rear-Admiral R. COLLINSON, C.B. Captain R. JEFFERSON. Colonel R. A. SHAFTO ADAIR. Rear-Admiral Sir FREDERICK NICOLSON, Bart., C.B.	} For Re-election.
---	-----------------------

Rear-Admiral G. WELLESLEY, C.B. Captain P. SMITH, Grenadier Guards. Lieut.-Col. MAUDE, h.-p. R.A., C.B. Captain LEOPOLD HEATH, R.N., C.B.
--

I cannot submit this motion without expressing my great satisfaction at the success of this Institution. Our Army and Navy possess peculiar advantages for obtaining information in different parts of the world, and this Institution supplies them with an admirable medium for collecting that information, and bringing it to bear, for the benefit of the two services as well as of the country in general. The success of the Institution must be a subject of congratulation, and I am sure those who were the founders of it must, in witnessing the advantages which it is diffusing, find the best reward that can be given them for their exertions. I was much pleased to hear Captain Horton speak of the way in which the Journal is appreciated. We who are residing in London have the privilege of attending the lectures and of hearing the discussions which take place. But we must recollect that there are very many Members of the Institution on service in distant lands who are denied this privilege, and the only means by which they can obtain the information, which we derive personally, is by the publication of the Journal. We must recollect also that an Institution of this kind must depend in a great measure for its success upon attracting into its ranks the younger members of the profession. The Journal may be a valuable instrumentality in accomplishing this object, for reaching them in different parts of the world, it may not only awaken within them an interest in the success of the Institution, but it may induce them to turn their attention to subjects of great professional value and importance. This Institution seems to me to be a sort of centre to which Naval and Military men, who have the opportunity and the diligence to collect information, may bring it, or send it, with a view to its being utilized by insertion in the Journal. I was particularly struck with an observation with regard to the Topographical Department, in the Report read by my friend the Secretary, because I feel that to collect maps, to be studied by Naval and Military men, must be of the greatest importance to the efficiency of the two services. None of us know into what part of the world we may be sent, therefore it is of the utmost consequence to be able to come here and have the opportunity of studying maps, an opportunity which we could not have perhaps elsewhere. I need not trouble you with any further observations, and I will now move the Resolution which has been placed in my hands.

Lieut-Colonel NORTH, 60th Rifles—

I have much pleasure in seconding the Resolution.

The Resolution was put from the Chair and carried unanimously.

Captain TARLETON, R.N. C.B.—

In moving the next Resolution, I would simply remark upon the satisfactory state of the Balance Sheet to-day, which I think must be due to the supervision exercised in a great measure by the Auditors. I beg to move—

"That the thanks of this Meeting be given to the Auditors, Captain J. E. Dolby, H. F. Downes, Esq., Thomas Smith, Esq., and that they be requested to continue their valuable services for the ensuing year."

Lieut-Colonel FLETCHER, Scots Fusilier Guards—

I have great pleasure in seconding that Resolution, because I feel that the office of Auditor must be one of those onerous duties that do not make much outward show, but which often have a material influence upon the welfare of an Institution.

The Resolution was put from the Chair and carried unanimously.

Captain PACKE—

The Resolution that I have been called upon to move, is:—

"That Captain James Macqueen be elected as Auditor, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Henry Elliot, Esq., who has acted as one of the Auditors since the year 1839."

In moving this Resolution, I hope I may be permitted to say a few words with respect to the services of Mr. Elliot. Mr. Elliot has been for twenty-five years an Auditor of this Institution, and I believe he has never failed once in attending to his duties. I feel competent to speak upon this point, because for several years I have had the pleasure of acting with him, and I can only say that a more faithful, honest officer attached to an Institution never existed. Like some of us, he is getting old, and his great age is the cause of his resignation at the present moment. Had it not been for that, I am certain he would have attended to his duties to the last. He has been a most useful and efficient officer. His kindness of manner as a co-adjutor in auditing the accounts, and the attention which he has given to his duties, have been most satisfactory. I am sure you will give him your thanks. I have now great pleasure in recommending as his successor a gentleman who, I believe, will efficiently fill his place; perhaps not with all the experience he possessed, but certainly with equal zeal and attention.

Major-General VINCENT EYRE, C.B.—

I have great pleasure in seconding the proposition which has just been made. And in doing so, allow me to take the opportunity, having recently returned to this country after a long sojourn in India, to express on behalf of my friends in the Indian army, the great interest which attaches among them, in all branches of the profession, to the proceedings of this Institution, and more particularly to the publication of the Journal. They look forward to the arrival of the Journal with the greatest interest, feeling that it supplies what has hitherto been experienced as an urgent want, and that it keeps them au fait on subjects of universal interest to the army.

The Resolution was put from the Chair and carried unanimously.

The CHAIRMAN then announced that the business of the Meeting was concluded.

The Chair was then taken by Vice-Admiral Sir GEORGE BACK, D.C.L., F.R.S., on the motion of Colonel YORKE, F.R.S.

General FOX—

It gives me double pleasure to move that our thanks be given to Sir Edward Cust for having presided over us on the present occasion. He is one of the old gallant soldiers belonging to the early part of this century, whose numbers, I am sorry to say, are in the course of nature rapidly diminishing, as we see by the allusions in the Report of the Council. He is also, I am proud to say it, a personal friend of my own. I need not enter into the character and services of Sir Edward Cust, nor allude to his universal popularity, but I shall simply move that we give him our thanks for his services in the Chair to-day.

Colonel YORKE—

I have great pleasure in seconding the resolution. It is well known to most of you that Sir Edward Cust has, during his later years, since his retirement from active service, been occupied in the composition of a book on Military History, of great importance and utility to the Army. I think an Institution which seeks to promote Military Science and Literature cannot have a more appropriate President for our annual meetings than an Officer like Sir Edward Cust.

The CHAIRMAN, in putting the Resolution to the vote, said he was sure it would be carried by acclamation.

The Resolution was put and carried with acclamation.

Lieut.-General Sir EDWARD CUST—

You may be sure that I could not have received a greater compliment at your hands than to be asked to preside upon the occasion of our Anniversary; and the manner in which you have received the proposal of a vote of thanks to myself is one of which I feel proud, and indeed I should be very ungrateful if I did not acknowledge it most heartily.

I will frankly acknowledge that I take a heartfelt interest in the success of this Institution. I have belonged to it since its original foundation. It has now attained a degree of prosperity which must cause us to be not only deeply interested, but gratified with the manner in which it has carried out its objects. I have been delighted to hear civilians, as well as professional men, give their testimony to the value of the Institution, to both our Home and Colonial Services. For my part, I am one of those who have always felt that, whilst science, generally, was advancing with such rapid strides towards improvement, the Officers of the Army and Navy should follow this upward movement; and I have always been of opinion that men who were likely to be called upon to lead our Armies and Navies, should be men of good information. I do not mean to say that it is necessary we should make the Army and Navy learned professions; or, that we should go to the extent, in point of instruction, which it has been the fashion of late years to consider necessary with regard to our younger officers; but that our officers should possess good general knowledge upon all questions relating to Naval and Military Science, must I think be admitted by all.

The testimony which has been given by General Vincent Eyre, and by Sir Harry Verney, to the value of the Journal, I respond to most cordially. It is impossible not to feel that officers who go on foreign service are immensely benefitted by having the progress made in professional knowledge communicated to them regularly. And, with regard to the value of the Library and Topographical Department, to which allusion has been made, I may mention, as an illustration, that General Cameron, before he went out on service in New Zealand, was a most assiduous attendant at the Institution, as naturally enough every General Officer would be, when entrusted with a responsible command abroad, to obtain from those departments all the information that he could desire.

Allusion has been kindly made to my own efforts to contribute to the literature of the profession. I am glad to have the opportunity of saying that not only were the treasures of the library of this Institution open to me in that task, but that, through the extreme liberality of the Council, I have been permitted to take books, in which I was interested, home with me, which books I could not obtain at the British Museum or anywhere else. The permission was most courteously granted me, and I am gratified to be able to acknowledge it.

Before I close I should like to make one remark upon the value of this Institution in another respect. I allude not only to the facility which it gives to the younger members of the profession to acquaint themselves with the progress in Naval and Military science, but more especially to the valuable information which it affords to those entrusted with the administration of the Army and Navy, information which they could not otherwise obtain. To explain what I mean,—take for instance the great gun question: in a matter so interesting and important to the management of war, almost the first question one hears in private society is, “what does the Army say? what does the Navy say?” How are we to obtain the opinions of the Army and Navy? You cannot get it from private individuals: you can hardly be satisfied with what you get from newspapers. You want to get something like a collective opinion, the best opinions existing at the time, among the officers of the Army and Navy. Now, surely, we get it in the lectures and discussions that take place in this Institution. These lectures are given by men highly capable of forming opinions upon deep scientific questions, in the presence of a large body of men capable of appreciating or testing those opinions by their own professional knowledge. The discussions are conducted with a total absence of anything like heat or animosity, or desire for personal triumph, and without any attempt when the discussion is over to come to a triumphant resolution upon the subject. But these lectures and discussions, appearing in the Journal, go out to all parts of the world, where they are read by those who can bring fresh information and fresh opinions to bear upon both sides of the question, and a clear professional judgement is arrived at. Thus the subject becomes thoroughly exhausted; and the way in which this process must operate to place at the disposal of the Government the means of knowing the opinions of practical and experienced men in the Army and Navy, must be infinitely superior to anything they could obtain from all the Commissions and Committees they could possibly appoint.

EXTRACT FROM

The Times of Saturday, April 2, 1864.

A YEAR has not elapsed since there was in the midst of us, in the full possession of a great and well-deserved reputation, an old soldier whose career was an illustration of military merit and success as well as a proof of the liberality of the most exclusive of our institutions. A Field-Marshal and a Peer of the realm at the end of his life, the poor Scotch lad who had for many a year stood in the cold shade which was afterwards lightened up by such unusual sunshine at last received every honour his country could bestow on him while living. A nation mourned him when dead. The nobles of the land crowded round his grave, and beneath the roof of Westminster Abbey, when he was borne to his rest, they stood shoulder to shoulder with the soldiers who had followed their chief to victory. It is needless to recapitulate the incidents of a life in which the events were only recorded under the names of famous victories or the unregistered procession of yearly services till the magnum opus was accomplished, and India was subjugated to the direct rule of her new Empress. But in all his long term of soldierhood Colin Campbell, who never made an enemy, except of those whose friendship natures like his should shun, and who never sought a friend whose enmity honest men should not avoid, was, we venture to say, the most complete exponent of a British soldier's interests, feelings, passions, emotions, as he surely was the most remarkable exemplification of the certainty of recognition which opportunity gives to professional excellence. If he was especially proud of the bonneted battalions whom he led in the Crimea and in India, there was no General so prodigal of praise to all when it was deserved, and so ready to censure his favoured legions when he thought dispraise was deserved. Englishmen, Welshmen, Scotchmen, and Irishmen he included in the words "British soldier," and no one ever better knew the character of that composite being than the ci-devant subaltern of the 9th Foot and the Colonel-in-Chief of the Coldstream Guards. It would be exaggeration to describe his military attributes as genius; it would be injustice to designate his military acquirements as short of consummate soldiership. No man ever rose above the level of his fellows to whom a national monument on a becoming scale was more fully due. The sight of such a work would be an animating incentive to the soldier, and a gratifying acknowledgment of the value of services in the field. The imputation which rests on us to a certain extent of neglecting the more sentimental agencies by which men are wrought up to great deeds would lose its smallest basis if such meetings as that which assembled to set the Clyde Memorial on foot were more common. It is only of late years, however, that the idea of doing honour to the dead by the erection of statues in public places has been expanded beyond the claims of Royalty itself, many concessions to which had been better left unmade. Mural monuments and tablets in cathedrals and churches, urns and columns in birthplaces and the like, were our most general forms of expressing gratitude to men who fell in the service of their country, or secured signal national triumphs.

We all know how crowded our cathedral walls are with graceless monuments, brasses, and slabs which are a transient wonder to the tramping crowds of country visitors, and leave no elevating or ennobling impression on any one's mind. A few statues to great statesmen sentenced to solitary confinement in secluded squares do not redeem the character of our metropolitan art from the status to which the effigies for the most part of Royal personages reduced it. The Duke of Wellington's signal and cardinal services, so much above any performed by a subject, occurred at a time when more liberal views began to prevail respecting the honours to be rendered to eminent men. An equestrian statue was rarely, if ever, accorded to even the most illustrious, but there could be no exception taken to the right of the deliverer of Spain and of the victor at Waterloo to such an honour. A man who saves an empire is fairly entitled to the highest salvage the empire can bestow. Subsequently, military and naval statues became more common in public places, and "the finest site in Europe" was rapidly occupied by the monuments which even he who runs away cannot help seeing. At the public meeting, where it was resolved that a subscription should be opened for the Clyde Memorial, there was a universal feeling that a statue should be erected to the soldier who had closed an extraordinary series of services by giving peace and security to India, and snatching the Eastern Empire from the grasp of rebellion. It so happened that the meeting, though attended by many most eminent and illustrious persons, necessarily took place at a time of year when the town was nearly deserted. The subscription then opened was large, but the operations of the committee were circumscribed by the unavoidable absence from London of many who admired the character of the deceased Field-Marshal. Above all, the season of furloughs which was at hand prevented the appeal to the army, from which the largest results were naturally expected, as Colin Campbell was, above most captains, the soldiers' friend, and was one of whose labours every man in the service might feel proud. In pursuance of the resolutions agreed to at the meeting, that a statue should be erected to Lord Clyde's honour in the metropolis, the committee placed themselves in communication with Baron Marochetti, who furnished them with a design for a monumental statue, which has obtained unqualified praise from the best judges. The next step was to obtain a site which should be appropriate in all respects for a statue which promised to be a public ornament, and a fitting record of one who, in the language of the Duke of Cambridge, "exhibited the talents and acquirements of a great commander, who had done so much honour to himself, and conferred such lasting benefits on his country." It was with much satisfaction the committee obtained a promise that a site would be granted outside the limits of the Parade Ground of the Horse Guards, close to the entrance to the Park, in an open and conspicuous place, where the statue could be seen by the public. The subscription list was, as we said, large on the part of the meeting, but there are still names which one looks for in vain on the list. Granting that Glasgow is about to erect a monument of her own, there is a lack of Scotch subscriptions, which cannot be accounted for by the Glasgow collection. It is true India has not remitted its quota, which is sure to be considerable, and the officers coming back from leave and the cessation of furlough at this season, will, we trust, swell the amount very largely. Nevertheless, there is necessity for exertion, in order to raise the amount to the 8,000 guineas which will be needed for the due completion of the monument and the expenses of the memorial. The committee are now actively engaged in the work. It is only necessary to inform the public and the country which valued the services of Lord Clyde so highly, and the soldiers whose cause he ever advocated, that money is still needed for his monument—and that it alone is required—to ratify the promises made at the meeting, and to enable the committee to bring their labours to an honourable and triumphant conclusion.

NOTE.—The amount received up to the present time is only £3,645 9s. 7d., and £8,000 being required for a statue worthy of the great services rendered to the country by Field-Marshal Lord Clyde, additional subscriptions are now earnestly requested.

Subscriptions may be paid to the joint Honorary Secretaries, at the office, 16, Waterloo Place, Pall Mall, London, S.W., or to the Bankers and Army and Navy Agents, on the next page.

ROYAL UNITED SERVICE INSTITUTION.

DESIGN.

THE promotion of Naval and Military Art, Science, and Literature is the object of the ROYAL UNITED SERVICE INSTITUTION.

The principal means by which this object is sought to be obtained are,—the formation of a Library containing Historical, Scientific, and Professional Works, Maps, Charts, and Plans; the Delivery of Lectures; the Exhibition of Inventions; and the Publication of a Journal; a Collection of Arms of all Nations; and a Museum, which shall serve as a Central Repository for Objects of Professional Information, and for Trophies and Relics, &c., connected with distinguished Officers, and Naval and Military Operations.

BYE - LAWS.

SECTION I.

1. There shall be Patrons and Vice-Patrons.
2. PATRONS: The Sovereign and the Royal Consort.
3. VICE-PATRONS: Limited to Members of the Royal Family; Officers eminently distinguished in the Service of the Country; and Members selected by the Council as having been benefactors to the Institution.
4. The following Public Officers shall be Vice-Patrons during their continuance in office:—

1. The First Lord of the Treasury.
2. The Secretary of State for the Home Department.
3. The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.
4. The Secretary of State for the Colonies.
5. The Secretary of State for War.
6. The Secretary of State for India.
7. The First Lord of the Admiralty.
8. The Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Forces.
9. The Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland.

SECTION II.—COMPOSITION.

1. Princes of the Royal Blood ; Lords Lieutenant of Counties ; Governors of Colonies and Dependencies ; Officers of the Army, Navy, Marines, Her Majesty's East Indian Military and Naval Forces, Militia, Yeomanry, Royal Naval Reserve, and Volunteer Corps, shall be entitled to become Members without Ballot, on payment of the Entrance Fee and Annual Subscription.

2. Retired Officers, not previously Members ; Deputy Lieutenants of Counties ; Civil Functionaries who are or have been attached to the Naval and Military Departments ; also the Master, Deputy-Master, and Elder Brethren of the Trinity House ; and Navy and Army Agents ; shall be eligible to become Members by Ballot.

3. Gentlemen above the age of fifteen, whose names are on the List of the Commander-in-Chief for Commissions in the Army, or who are probationary for offices connected with the Naval and Military Professions, shall be admissible, by Ballot, to become PROVISIONAL MEMBERS from year to year, on payment of the Annual Subscription ; after they obtain their appointments they shall become Ordinary Members on payment of the Entrance Fee.

4. The Candidates referred to in Articles 2 and 3 must be recommended by Two Members of the Institution on their personal knowledge ; the Lists, signed by the Secretary, shall be put up in the Library or Reading-room Fourteen Days before they are submitted for Election to the Council of Management specially assembled.

SECTION III.—GOVERNMENT.

1. The Government shall consist of a President and Twelve Vice-Presidents, and a Council of Management composed of Twenty-four Members.

2. THE PRESIDENT OF THE INSTITUTION shall be elected by a General Meeting of the Members, and shall be a Member of the Council, ex-officio.

3. THE VICE-PRESIDENTS shall be elected by the Council, of which they shall be ex-officio Members.

4. THE COUNCIL shall be elected by the General Meeting : Eight Members shall annually go out by rotation ; Three of the Members going out shall be eligible to be re-elected. The Council shall submit to the Annual General Meeting a list of not less than ten names from which the vacancies may be filled. Vacancies that occur during the year shall be filled up at the discretion of the Council; the Members so elected going out by rotation as the Members would have done whose position they have been elected to fill.

5. After the annual meeting, the Council shall select a Chairman and Vice-Chairman for the ensuing year, one of whom, or a Vice-President, shall preside at its meetings, except when the President of the Institution attends.

6. Five Members of the Council shall constitute a quorum.

7. Two Vice-Presidents shall undertake the office of Visitors, who shall make a quarterly inspection of the Institution and its affairs, and report thereon to the Council.

8. The Council shall have the custody of the Common Seal of the Corporation, and shall have full power and authority to affix the same to all deeds, documents, papers, and writings in the name and on behalf of the Corporation.

9. The Council shall appoint a Secretary and Curator, and such other officers, attendants, and servants, as they shall think necessary for the purposes of the Institution, with full power to suspend or dismiss the same, and no such officer, attendant, or servant shall, either directly or indirectly, accept, receive, or take, from any person or persons whatsoever, any gratuity, fee, or reward whatsoever, other than and except the salary, wages, or emolument allowed by the Council.

SECTION IV.—SUBSCRIPTION.

1. An Entrance Fee of One Pound shall be paid by all Members on joining the Institution.

2. Annual Subscriptions shall be due on the 1st of January in each year: Subscribers of not less than One Pound a-year shall, after the 1st of January, 1860, be entitled to receive the Journal from the date of their becoming Members.

3. Annual Subscribers of Ten Shillings shall, after the 1st of January, 1860, receive as heretofore the Annual Report, but not the Journal.

4. After the 1st of January, 1860, all Subscribers of One Pound a-year shall, while serving on Foreign Stations, have their Subscription reduced to Ten Shillings a-year, commencing on the 1st of January succeeding their embarkation, if they express their wish to that effect in writing to the Secretary.

5. Life Subscriptions. After the 1st of January, 1860, the payment of a sum of Nine Pounds, in addition to the Entrance Fee, shall constitute a Member for Life, who shall be entitled to receive the Journal from the time of his becoming a Member.

6. Life Subscribers of Six Pounds, in addition to the Entrance Fee, shall receive as heretofore the Annual Report, but not the Journal.

7. Annual Subscribers of Ten Shillings and Life Subscribers of Six Pounds, while serving abroad, shall be entitled during such service to receive the current numbers of the Journal, on notifying their wish to that effect to the Secretary in writing.

8. Members who join the Institution on or after the 1st October in any year shall not be charged the ensuing Annual Subscription on the 1st of January.

9. Members failing to pay their Annual Subscriptions shall have their names removed from the List of Members, at the discretion of the Council.

10. Members whose names have been struck off for non-payment of their Subscriptions after repeated applications, shall be re-admissible only on payment of arrears from the date of last payment.

SECTION V.—FUNDS AND EXPENDITURE.

1. The management of the property, receipts, and payments of the Institution shall be confided to the Council, who shall authorize every payment by an order, signed by the Chairman at the Meeting, and another Member of Council present, and countersigned by the Secretary.

2. The Royal United Service Institution neither shall nor may make any dividend, gift, division, or bonus in money, unto or between any of its Members out of its present property, or out of any property which it may hereafter acquire, and the whole of its property, both present and future, shall be exclusively applied for carrying into effect its design as an establishment for the promotion of Naval and Military Art, Science, and Literature.

3. The funds of the Institution and all Life Subscriptions and Legacies shall be invested in the name of the Corporation in eligible securities, to be selected by the Council.

4. All cash received on behalf of the Institution by the Secretary shall be paid by him to the Bankers of the Institution.

SECTION VI.—AUDITORS.

1. There shall be Three Auditors, not Members of the Council, who shall be elected by the General Annual Meeting to audit the accounts, one of whom shall annually go out by rotation, but shall be eligible for re-election.

2. Two Auditors shall be a quorum.

3. Vacancies that occur other than those caused by the Auditor going out by rotation shall be filled up at the discretion of the Council; the Auditor so elected going out in rotation as the Auditor would have done whose position he has been elected to fill.

4. The Auditors shall meet and examine and sign the yearly accounts, adding thereto any remarks and making such inquiries as they may deem proper.

5. After the Audit, and at least Fourteen Days before the General Annual Meeting, the Annual Report, with an abstract of the accounts and estimate of the probable receipts and expenditure for the ensuing year shall be printed and placed in the Library and Reading-Room, and may be obtained by the Members upon application to the Secretary.

SECTION VII.—GENERAL MEETINGS.

1. A General Meeting shall be annually held on the first Saturday in March; that day being considered the Anniversary of the Institution.

2. The Council may call a Special General Meeting, on giving fourteen days' notice—which notice must be suspended in the Library or Reading-Room, and advertised in two military papers, specifying the object or objects in contemplation, and explicitly stating that the discussion shall be strictly confined to those objects.

3. The Council shall call a Special General Meeting, on the written requisition of not less than Twenty-four Members, within one calendar month from the date of such requisition, subject to the notices and restrictions above mentioned.

4. At the General Meetings, in case of an equality of votes, the Chairman shall have a second or casting vote.

5. No Member shall be entitled to speak or vote at any General Meeting, or at any Special General Meeting, or at any adjournment thereof, unless he shall have paid his Subscriptions up to the day of payment next preceding such Meeting.

6. That any General or Special General Meeting, finding the current day insufficient for its intended purpose, may adjourn to the succeeding or any future day or days, until the business be concluded.

7. That no business shall be transacted at any Annual General Meeting other than that submitted by the Council, or by the direction of the Council, unless notice thereof be suspended in the Library or Reading-Room at least Fourteen Days prior to the day appointed for such Annual General Meeting, specifying the object or objects in contemplation, to which objects the discussion must be strictly confined.

SECTION VIII.—MAKING OR REPEALING BYE-LAWS.

Should it be proposed to make, alter, or repeal a Bye-Law, the proposition to such effect, signed by the proposer and seconder, shall be suspended in the Library or Reading-Room for Fourteen Days; after which the question shall be determined by a majority of at least two-thirds of the Members present at the next General Meeting.

SECTION IX.—MODE OF VOTING.

All questions to be decided by a show of hands, unless a Ballot be demanded.

SECTION X.—HONORARY MEMBERS.

1. The Council shall have the power of admitting Honorary and Corresponding Members.

2. Foreigners of distinction may be admitted as Honorary and Corresponding Members.

3. Eminent Individuals and Benefactors to the Institution, not otherwise eligible, may be admitted as Honorary Members.

4. The Diplomatic Body shall be invited to become Honorary members; and shall be privileged to submit the names of foreign noblemen and gentlemen, resident in England, to the Council, in order that the same courtesy may be extended to them, for the space of Three Months: this privilege to be renewed to such strangers, if desired, on the written application of their respective Ambassadors, or at the recommendation of some Member to whom they may be personally known.

5. Foreign Naval and Military Officers may be admitted as Honorary and Corresponding Members.

6. Ladies who contribute to the Institution may be admitted as Honorary Members.

SECTION XI.—CONTRIBUTIONS.

The name of each Contributor shall be recorded, with a specification of the gift.

SECTION XII.—HOURS OF RECEPTION—VISITORS.

1. The Museum of the Institution shall be open daily (Sundays excepted) from 11 to 5 in Summer, and from 11 to 4 in Winter.* Printed tickets for the admission of Visitors are available every day except Friday, on which day a personal introduction by a Member is necessary. The names of Visitors to be inscribed in a book kept for the purpose.

2. The Libraries and Reading-Rooms shall be kept open (Sundays excepted) for the use of Members only, till 8 in the evening, or to a later hour, at the discretion of the Council.

3. The Museum shall be closed to Visitors when necessary, at the discretion of the Council.

SECTION XIII.—EXPULSION.

1. Any Member who shall be removed from the Public Service for causes affecting his character shall cease to belong to the Institution.

2. In case the Council shall think it expedient to submit the conduct of any Member to the judgment of a General Meeting, the Council shall call a Special General Meeting; and in the event of its being voted at that Meeting, by two-thirds of the Members present (to be decided by ballot), that such Member should be removed from the Institution, then, in that case, the name of such Member shall accordingly be erased from the List of Members, and he shall cease to belong to the Institution.

* Winter months—October to March inclusive.

3. In case the Member is a Life Subscriber, he shall forfeit all claim on the Institution upon his expulsion.

SECOND EDITION.

A BRIEF DESCRIPTION
OF THE
Royal United Service Institution,
1862.

Published under the Authority of the Council.

This Institution was founded in 1831, under the auspices of King William the Fourth, and under the patronage of the Duke of Wellington, and of some of the most distinguished Admirals and Generals at that time in the service of the country.

In 1860, Her Majesty the Queen was graciously pleased to grant to the Members of the Institution, a Royal Charter of Incorporation; it is therefore one of the Royal Societies of the Kingdom, under the title of the ROYAL UNITED SERVICE INSTITUTION.

THE DESIGN.

The design of this Institution is the promotion of Naval and Military Art, Science, and Literature.

The Council seek to carry out the above object by means of a Library, by the delivery of Lectures, the exhibition of Inventions, the publication of a Journal, and by a Museum which contains Naval and Military Models, a collection of Arms of all Nations, Relics of, and Trophies connected with, distinguished Officers or warlike operations; and other objects affording professional information.

QUALIFICATION OF MEMBERS.

The following Officers are entitled to become Members without ballot, on paying their entrance fee and subscription, viz.,

Princes of the Blood Royal; Lords Lieutenant of Counties; Governors of Colonies and Dependencies; Officers of the Army, Navy, Marines, Her Majesty's East Indian Naval and Military Forces, Militia, Yeomanry, and Volunteer Corps.

The following are eligible to become Members on their names being submitted to the Council by two Members of the Institution :—

Officers who have retired from the Service not previously Members, Deputy Lieutenants of Counties, civil functionaries who are or have been attached to the Naval and Military Departments, also the Master, Deputy-Master, and elder Brethren of the Trinity House, and Army and Navy Agents.

N.B. It is competent for a Member of Council to demand a Ballot.

SUBSCRIPTION.

AN ENTRANCE FEE OF ONE POUND on joining.

An Annual Subscription of ONE POUND, which entitles a Member to receive the Journal, or of TEN SHILLINGS without the Journal.

A Life Subscription of TEN POUNDS (including Entrance Fee), which entitles a Member to receive the Journal, or of SEVEN POUNDS without the Journal.

Subscriptions are due on joining, and on the 1st of January; but Members who join on or after the 1st of October will not be charged the subscription on the following 1st of January, but it will next become due in the subsequent January, from fifteen to twelve months afterwards.

THE DEPARTMENTS.

Literary and Scientific.

THE LIBRARY.

The Library contains 12,000 volumes of Historical, Scientific, and Professional Works, and others of a highly interesting character. New publications, relating to Naval and Military subjects, as well as to those of general information and utility, are added from time to time. The Governments of Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands, Prussia, Russia, Italy, Sweden, and Switzerland present to the Institution the professional Journals and Reviews published in their respective countries.

The Library is found most valuable for purposes of reference, and is extensively used by Officers making researches, and preparing Works for the press.

A Reading Room, which is open from 10 A.M. to 8 P.M., is attached to the Library, in which professional Newspapers and the leading Periodicals are furnished for the use of Members, and where they can receive and answer Letters.

THE TOPOGRAPHICAL AND HYDROGRAPHICAL ROOM.

The Admiralty Charts are here systematically arranged and catalogued for reference; the Admiralty present all new Charts as they are issued. There are also a great variety of Military Maps and Plans of Campaigns, Battles, Sieges, &c. The War Department transmit those which are published by the Topographical Office, and also present such photographs of Ordnance and Military Matériel, and of the results of experiments at Woolwich, as may be deemed of interest to the Members.

During the progress of military operations, the movements of the hostile forces, as far as information permits, are defined upon maps by means of pins and coloured cards, showing the strength and position of the several corps, and the names of their commanders.

THE LECTURES.

From January till May inclusive, Lectures are delivered upon Fridays, and Evening Meetings generally take place every alternate Monday. Officers and gentlemen of scientific acquirements give the Members the advantage of their experience, and their papers are published in the Journal.

One of the most important advantages conferred by this Institution upon the Service is, that it affords to gentlemen professional or otherwise, the opportunity of bringing prominently forward, by means of Lectures or Papers, schemes of improvement of a professional character, which might otherwise fail in receiving the attention they deserve; and which, after being

An elaborate model of the Battle of Yatalgar has been recently added to the collection. The stand or table on which the model is placed, was presented by The Lord of the Admiralty. This table is of the greatest interest having been constructed out of oak timber removed from the Victory when under repair.

THE MUSEUM.

ARMS, MODELS, SPECIMENS, &c., &c.

Naval Department.

MODELS.

In this Department there are a Series of Models, illustrating the naval architecture of various nations, from early periods to the present time; also models of various descriptions of anchors, paddles, guns, and other naval adjuncts.

An elaborate model of the Battle of Trafalgar has been recently added to the Collection. The stand or table, upon which the Model is placed, was presented by the Lords of the Admiralty. This table is of the greatest interest, having been constructed out of oak timber removed from the "Victory" when under repair.

STEAM ENGINES.

The Institution is indebted to Mr. Jekyll for a series of Models of Steam Engines from the earliest construction to the latest improvements.

Military Department.

ARMOURY.

The European Armoury contains specimens of Mediæval Armour and Weapons; a complete series of firelocks, in use by the British Army from the reign of Charles the Second to the present time; also a variety of breechloaders, needle-guns, &c., &c., of different countries.

The Enfield rifle, of the pattern of 1855, as manufactured by machinery, is exhibited, showing the original state in the raw material of each component part, and the several processes each part undergoes towards its final completion and adjustment as a rifle. An interesting series of locks, of different periods and varied construction, are also in this department.

The weapons of the Esquimaux, of New Zealand, Australia, Morocco, East and West Africa, North and South America, of the Sikhs, Ghoorkas, Affghans, Chinese, &c., &c., are exhibited in this department.

explained in the Theatre, are printed and circulated for the benefit of the Services.

The Council are anxious that Officers, particularly those on Foreign Stations, should contribute short papers, with plans, descriptive of countries or warlike operations, or otherwise affording professional information.

It is proposed to commence each Season with a Lecture containing a complete résumé of the progress of Naval and Military Science during the preceding year, and of the inventions and improvements which have taken place in Military Matériel.

There is a Lecture Theatre in the Institution, admirably adapted for its object. Societies connected with the professions are afforded the advantage of holding their General Meetings in the Theatre, at the discretion of the Council.

THE JOURNAL.

The Journal contains the Lectures delivered in the Theatre, the proceedings of Evening Meetings, a description of inventions exhibited, illustrated by maps and diagrams.

The publication has proved eminently successful, and has been received with marked approbation by the Members.

The numbers are sent free of all expense to each Annual Subscriber of One Pound, or Life Subscriber of Ten Pounds.

The Journal being the only advantage which the Institution can confer upon Members who are serving abroad, Subscribers of One Pound a year have the option, whilst so serving, of reducing their Subscription to Ten Shillings, and will still be entitled to receive the Journal.

Many Officers serving on foreign stations, particularly at the Cape, at Halifax, in India, Ceylon, and the Mediterranean, have recently joined the Institution in consequence of their high appreciation of the merits of the Journal.

INVENTIONS.

Inventors have the opportunity at Evening Meetings, of describing any Inventions connected with naval and military improvements, and of depositing models of them for exhibition in the Institution.

ACCOUETREMENT ROOM.

The object of this collection is to exhibit the uniforms, arms, accoutrements, and field equipments of the soldiers of various arms in the several Continental armies, in addition to those of Great Britain. The Governments of Austria, Bavaria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Greece, Hanover, Holland, Portugal, Prussia, Sardinia, Saxony, Spain, Norway and Sweden, Switzerland, Russia, and the United States, have already presented specimens of those in use in their respective countries.

MILITARY MODELS.

There are three models in this department which are of deep interest from their historical character: viz., Siborne's Model of the Field and Battle of Waterloo; Colonel Hamilton's Model of the South of the Crimea and Siege of Sevastopol; and Captain Staveley's Model of the Defences of Lintz.

There is a series of models of permanent fortification, illustrating the various systetus of Vauban, Bordwine, Carnot, the Prussian, &c.; there are also models illustrating different descriptions of field-works, attack of fortified places, pontoons, military bridges, and military kitchens; also specimens of warlike engines, mining materials, &c., &c.

A most elaborate and beautiful model (constructed by the Royal Engineers at Chatham) illustrating the attack and defence of a fortified town, as well as other models showing engineering details, have been purchased by the Institution, and added to this collection.

It is the wish of the Council to place eventually in this department models or specimens of all objects that illustrate the military service, and which will afford information to officers who are anxious to become thoroughly acquainted with the practical details of their profession.

TROPHIES, RELICS, &c., &c.

The Collection of Trophies, illustrating some of the great services which the Army and Navy have rendered to the country, and of Relics connected with distinguished Officers and naval and military operations, are calculated to afford interest not only to the Members, but to the public in general.

In the Naval collection will be found several articles formerly belonging to "Nelson," some of his Autograph Letters, and the Sword worn by him at the capture of the "San Josef;" the Chronometer that was used by "Cook" when he sailed round the world; the Flag of the "Caroline," which was sent down the Falls of Niagara; the Signal-Book of the "Chesapeake;" the Main Truck of "L'Orient," the French flag-ship blown up at the battle of the Nile; and other objects of the greatest interest.

In the Military Department will be seen the Swords of "Cromwell" and "Wolfe;" the Sash by which "Sir John Moore" was lowered into his grave; "Napoleon's" Fusil, and other relics; "Tippoo Saib's" Pistols, and the Dress worn by him when he was killed; with Relics of Waterloo, of Inkerman, and of Sevastopol.

GEOLOGY.

The Museum also contains Geological and Mineralogical Collections. The sciences of Mineralogy and Geology being included in the Programme of Examinations for Commissions and for Staff Employments, these Collections will be useful to Candidates who are preparing for such examinations, and also to Officers who may desire to qualify themselves for conducting geological and mineralogical surveys. Considerable progress has also been made in forming a series of Specimens, by way of supplement to the Collection of Minerals, illustrative of the application of mineral substances to the manufacture of arms and munitions of war.

PRIVILEGES OF MEMBERS.

Members serving abroad, or non-resident in the United Kingdom, are entitled to an absent Member's ticket, which will admit their friends to see the Museum. The name and address of the person in whose charge this ticket is given must be transmitted to the Secretary and appear on the ticket, which must be renewed at the commencement of every year.

Members are entitled to as many tickets for the admission of parties to see the Museum as they may from time to time require. These tickets are available every day except Friday, on which day Members only can personally introduce their friends.

Members can admit two friends to the Lectures and Evening Meetings, either by personal introduction, or by ticket, except on special occasions, of which due notice will be given.

Honorary Members are entitled to personal admittance to the Museum and Theatre of the Institution.

All Soldiers, Sailors, and Policemen in uniform are admitted without tickets to see the Museum.

Information respecting the Institution will be advertised in the "Naval and Military Gazette," "United Service Gazette," "Wellington Gazette," and "Army and Navy Gazette."

Two Legacies, each of £500, have been recently bequeathed to the Institution, a proof that its character is justly appreciated by individuals, as a benefit to the Services and the Public.

Russell

The Royal United Service Institution, as a Central Metropolitan Establishment, under the gracious patronage of Her Majesty, and supported by Government partakes of a National character. Like other Royal Societies eminent in advancing the several specialities to which they are devoted, this Institution both encourages the Sciences connected with the profession of arms, and seeks to concentrate in the capital of the Empire whatever may tend to illustrate the services of the Army and Navy.

B. BURGESS, Captain,
Secretary.
